Answers and Explanations

CEX-V-0269/18

1	4	2	4	3	2	4	5	5	2	6	4*	7	4	8	2	9	2	10	3
11	1	12	3	13	4	14	3	15	2	16	4	17	2	18	1	19	5	20	5
21	1	22	2	23	1	24	4	25	2	26	2	27	1	28	1	29	3	30	4
31	3	32	2	33	4	34	2	35	4	36	3	37	4	38	1	39	3	40	3
41	2	42	2	43	2	44	4	45	1	46	1	47	3	48	1	49	2	50	4

1. 4 "For..exchange" is wrong. Option 3 has "new assignments that will be new", which creates redundancy. So, option 4 is the best choice.
2. 4 The sentence must maintain a parallel structure by ensuring the proper comparison. Option 1 compares "Face Wash did" with "anti-ageing cream sales". The voice doesn't match. Similarly option 2 is also wrong. It has the same parallelism error. Option 3 doesn't even mention the sale of anti-ageing cream. So, the comparison is wrong. Hence, option 4 is the correct choice.
3. 2 It's a question of parallelism. The passage of time doesn't appear to be the same "to a person standing and a person travelling". Options 1 and 4 can be directly eliminated for this reason. Option 3 is unnecessarily verbose and it uses verbs where the gerund is required. It's also missing "to" before "a person who is travelling". Option 5 doesn't maintain the consistency of tense. So, option 2 is the correct choice.
4. 5 The noun extent is followed by the preposition 'to'. So, options 2 and 3 are eliminated. 'Savings' is plural. So, it will require a plural verb to maintain subject-verb agreement. So, option 1 is eliminated. Option 4 uses the active voice. The clause requires the passive voice as "instability of the future markets" has caused the shift. So, option 5 is the right answer.
5. 2 The sentence is in the active voice. So, options 1 and 4 are eliminated. Option 3 has a parallelism error as the comparison is between Ryan school teachers and Modern school teachers. So, 2 is the correct answer.
6. 4*** None of the options are actually correct. "Edith Wharton's novel ...Lily Bart" is an additive phrase. So, a comma is needed after Lily Bart. This eliminates options 1 and 3. Option 2 is missing a verb for the clause referring to the publication of the novel. 4 needs a comma after Scribner's as the next phrase is an additive phrase too. Still, option 4 is the best answer.
7. 4 This is an incorrect question. First or last should be preceded by the definite article 'the', not 'a'. Still we should choose option 4 as we use whether to show that two alternatives are possible. If is used in case of a conditional sentence.
8. 2 The sentence is in active voice. So, option 2 is the correct choice. "To+infinitive" is required and the gerund is incorrect in case of option 3.
9. 2 The answer is 2. 'Different than' is wrong. It should be 'different from'. Both 1 and 2 are correct. However, 'referred back', a standard usage now, is sometimes considered to be grammatically incorrect.
10. 3 Options 1, 2, and 4 have modifier error. In all the three sentences, the tonsils are mentioned as the doer. Option 3 is the correct answer.
11. 1 Curiousness is incorrect. We can eliminate 4. "He was reared up" is incorrect. So, option 2 can be eliminated. "Being reared" means the process is still going on. It is incorrect. So, 1 is the correct answer. The sentence is incorrectly framed.
12. 3 "Attempt of" is incorrect. So, 4 is eliminated. "A coordinated attack" shows that the indefinite article should be used in the first phrase. So, 1 is eliminated. "Attempting" is incorrect as it is a gerund and acts as a noun. 3 is the correct answer.
13. 4 "With one hand" will be parallel with "with the other". Hence, we can eliminate options 1 and 2. 3 incorrectly uses "having a balance" as it twists the meaning. Hence, 4 is the correct answer.
14. 3 It should be counterpart.
15. 2 It should be blush.
16. 4 The correct idiom is "no match for".

17. 2 One accedes to a demand, request, or treaty. One assumes a position or office and "accede to" is the correct expression for it. One agrees to a proposal. So, option 2 is the correct answer.
18. 1 The last blank requires a pronoun that refers to "the place". So, 'it' is the correct choice for this blank. Thus, options 4 and 5 are eliminated. "To getting" is the not grammatically correct. "To+infinitive" is the correct grammatical usage. So, option 1 is the correct choice.
19. 5 The first blank requires a word that completes the conditional clause. So, 'if' is the only possible choice. Thus, options 2, 3, and 4 are eliminated. "Come back on me" doesn't make any sense. "Come back to me" means "to return". So, option 5 is the correct choice.
20. 5 A felon is a criminal who has committed a felony or offence. So, option 1 is eliminated as felon doesn't fit the theme of the paragraph. Febrile generally has a positive connotation. So, it can't fit the context here. Federate, as an adjective, refers to an organization or thing, not a human being. Feckless means irresponsible and feral means wild. So, both fit the context here. The club decided to honour Arun. So, facilitate is wrong. Option 5 is the correct choice.
21. 1 The first blank will take 'less' and not 'fewer' as gold is not countable. Since number of men can be counted, therefore second blank will take 'fewer'. Blank 3 will take 'some time' as it refers to a period of time. Blank 4 will take 'sometime' as it refers to some point of time. Blank 5 will take 'sometimes' as it refers to 'occurrence of something occasionally'.
22. 2 The second blank requires a verb in the past perfect tense. So, options 1, 3, 4, and 5 are eliminated. Option 5 also results in a phrase "before ever" which is incorrect.
23. 1 The first two blanks require the indefinite article 'a' as 'wolf and lamb' have not been defined. In the second reference to these two, the definite article 'the' should be used. So, option 1 is the correct answer. As only one lamb is referred, its fold becomes, by default, definite. So, 'the' is to be used in the third blank.
24. 4 This can be answered by the method of elimination. Bat and Weasel have not been defined in the beginning. So the first mention of the two will require the indefinite article. So, options 3 and 5 are eliminated. The fourth blank will require 'the' as the weasel has already been defined. So, option 5 is eliminated. Bat is not the only bird. So, the fifth blank requires 'a'. Thus, option 4 is the correct answer.
25. 2 "As usual" is the right phrase. So, we can eliminate options 1, 4, and 5. Dared can't be followed by 'through'. So, option 2 is the correct answer.
26. 2 'Plant' is a specific location and Texas is a city. So, 'at' and 'in' are required in the first two blanks. Prologue takes the preposition 'to'. So, option 2 is the correct answer.
27. 1 The two clauses joined by 'not only...but also' should have similar construction. The college is the subject for both the clauses. Except option 1, every other option has a parallelism error.
28. 1 Option 3 – "Challenging and inspiring". Option 4 – "Confident of speaking". Option 2 has a parallelism error as the two clauses should be in the same tense in order to be compared. Hence, 1 is the grammatically correct sentence.
29. 3 Option 1 – 'to have fled'. Option 2 – 'by' before plane is redundant. Option 4 – 'not for my neighbour' is the correct phrase for the parallel structure to be maintained. So, 3 is the correct answer.
30. 4 "Those" is the correct pronoun which refers to "the people" who had previously challenged the factory manager. The other sentences use incorrect pronouns.
31. 3 1 creates a modifier error. The map is attributed to the confusion. 2 and 4 have parallelism errors. 3 is the best option. In 2, had to shows an obligation and volition.
32. 2 'If' shows a conditional case. In 4, it should be 'when required.'
33. 4 Only this sentence has parallelism in the use of neither...nor conjunction.
34. 2 The other sentences give ambiguous meanings. If one sees another person turning to the papers, one would stop making a hasty retreat.
35. 4 1 and 4 are both grammatically correct. However, referring to a collective noun in case of division of opinion is an exception. In the second part of 4, the jury is referred to as "they" which creates a parallelism consistency. So, 4 is a better choice.
36. 3 Option 1 – "a...problems" is incorrect. Option 2 – "setting up of" is the required expression. Option 4 – "displacing" is wrong. It's a gerund. The sentence needs an adjective or participle. So, option 3 is the correct answer.
37. 4 Statements with nothing, nobody etc. are treated as negative statements. So, the same rule applies i.e. the question tag is positive. As this sentence is in the past simple tense, the question tag will be in the same tense.

38. 1	The sentence is – Reema (does) have to change...So the question tag will be negative.	45. 1	"Catch a glimpse of the city" is the correct expression.
39. 3	Sentences with barely, rarely, never, hardly etc. are positive statements which are treated as negative ones. So, the question tag is positive in nature.	46. 1	It should be "capable of".
40. 3	The question tag used for 'Let's' (which is treated as a special case) is "shall we". So, 3 is the correct answer.	47. 3	The blank requires 'future simple' tense. It's an action that will happen at some point in the future. The future continuous tense will be inappropriate in this context. So, option 3 is the correct answer. The modal "would" shows a hypothetical possibility and it is incorrect in the given context.
41. 2	This is considered a special case in question tag chapter. It's a typically British usage. The correct expression is "don't you". And yes, it defies most of the standard rules.	48. 1	In sentences where an action interrupts another continuing action, the latter is reflected by using the continuous tense. Here, we need 'past continuous'. So, option 1 is the correct answer.
42. 2	The 'p' of parents must in small case in A and the tense is wrong in C. It should be "I was".	49. 2	The given sentence is in present tense. Therefore the corresponding blank should be in the present continuous tense. So, 2 is the correct choice.
43. 2	We need a punctuation mark after 'tower'.	50. 4	The sentence mentions that by the time the second action (arrival of firemen) happened, the other action was over. So, the first action should be in the past perfect form. So, option 4 is the correct choice.
44. 4	'More taller' isn't the correct expression. The sentence should read Anoop is taller.
